

THE GROSVENOR

· STOCKBRIDGE ·

The Grosvenor at Stockbridge is a little gem, lovingly restored to its former glory over the past 18 months. It sits proudly at the heart of Stockbridge, the smallest town in England, and home to the river Test. It was named after Lord Grosvenor when built in the early 19th century and has been a popular escape ever since.

Our lounge provides the best area to relax in comfortable surroundings, should it be for just a coffee or a cocktail. Our large Dining Room serves up great classic and contemporary food, starting with breakfast, then easing through into lunch, and coming back then for dinner. Our Walled Garden terrace comes with outdoor seating, gas heaters and a wood-fired oven.

For the diners, our Head Chef Neil Cooper has created an innovative menu that serves up traditional and modern classics with a contemporary twist and all expertly cooked. For the drinkers, if wines, beers and an extended selection of gins, rums and vodkas aren't enough, our Barman has created exclusive cocktails – or you can ask for your own special creation.

The vibe is casual, informal, and most importantly, fun.
